C. Army Congressional Fellowship.

1. Program Description:

   A. Overview. The Army Congressional Fellowship Program is a 44-month program which includes pursuit of a Master of Professional Studies (MPS) Degree in Legislative Affairs at George Washington University, service as a Fellow for a Member of Congress, and utilization on the Army Staff in a congressional-related duty position. The program seeks service members who have demonstrated outstanding promotion potential. Officers, warrant officers and senior noncommissioned officers looking for a fast-paced and exciting broadening opportunity are encouraged to apply for the Army Congressional Fellowship Program. Commanders and supervisors are also encouraged to submit their best candidates for this prestigious opportunity based on the outstanding potential and aptitude for service in the Congressional environment.

   B. Purpose. The Army Congressional Fellowship Program has four purposes:

      (1) Provide outstanding service members with strong promotion potential an opportunity to learn and understand the importance of the strategic relationships between the Army and Congress.

      (2) Expose Congressional Members and staff to the outstanding quality of Army leaders, and also to help Congress understand the Army as an institution through contact with Army fellows working in their offices.

      (3) Develop a cohort of Army Leaders who can be immediately assigned to Legislative Liaison duties within HQDA [Office of the Chief Legislative Liaison (OCLL) and Assistant Secretary of the Army for Financial Management and Comptroller (ASA-FM&C)], National Guard Bureau-Legislative Liaison (NGB-LL), and Office of the Chief of Army Reserve Legislative Affairs Division (OCAR-LAD).

      (4) Develop a pool of officers, warrant officers and senior noncommissioned officers for potential future utilization in the field of legislative liaison.

C. Orientation and Academics. Selected participants begin the fellowship with an orientation program, which prepares Fellows for academics and familiarizes them to OCLL. The academic portion begins with a summer term of study at George Washington University (GWU). The GWU Master of Professional Studies (MPS) in Legislative Affairs consists of an 11-course program focused on Congress. The curriculum exposes students to all aspects of the congressional experience. Congressional staffers comprise the large majority of students in the program, which offers Army fellows a unique opportunity to network with others working on Capitol Hill and in the legislative liaison arena. Fellows enroll in core courses and electives in the summer and fall 2022 sessions. Fellows take elective courses in areas of their choosing, pursue independent study opportunities, and complete comprehensive exams earning a MPS Degree in Legislative Affairs in spring 2023. Fellows can be awarded transfer credit for Army PME and courses completed that have not contributed to a Master’s Degree, at the discretion of GWU.
D. The Capitol Hill experience. In January 2023, fellows begin their assignment on Capitol Hill by serving on the staff of a Member of Congress or on a congressional committee. Fellows are typically given responsibility for drafting legislation, preparing and staffing the Member for congressional hearings, writing speeches, drafting floor statements, handling defense-related constituent issues, and briefing Members of Congress prior to committee meetings and floor debate. The Capitol Hill experience ends in December 2023.

E. Utilization Assignment. Fellows will immediately serve a 24-month utilization assignment upon completion of time served in a Member’s office. Fellows will be placed in either OCLL, SAFM-BUL, NGB-LA, or OCAR-LAD. All assignments are approved by the Chief Legislative Liaison IAW AR 1-202.

2. ILE Statement: IAW Secretary of the Army's Memorandum, 28 May 2019, subject: Army Directive 2019-19 (Credentialing Intermediate Level Education), this program is no longer ILE (AOC) credited.

J. JCS/OSD/ARSTAF Internship.

1. Program Description: The JCS/OSD/ARSTAF Intern Program is a three-year program. Phase I – Georgetown University Master of Policy Management: The degree is a 36 credit, 12 course program. The academic portion of the internship begins with an intensive summer program consisting of four courses: public management/leadership, the U.S. public policy process, ethics in public policy, and decision making. After completing the summer program, students take additional core courses covering a wide variety of topics. Students also take elective courses in areas of their choosing. Elective course areas include homeland and national security, international policy, public and nonprofit management, and political strategy. Students will also participate in occasional workshops offered by the program. The final project is a capstone paper that requires students to demonstrate their ability to integrate analytic and management tools to recommend solutions to specific policy problems. For more information, please review the Georgetown McCourt School of Public Policy web page at https://mccourt.georgetown.edu/. Phase II – Joint Staff or Office of the Secretary of Defense Internship: Upon earning their degree, interns are integrated into the policy and operational activities of the nation’s senior military staffs to give them a broader perspective of operations within the military and our government. Staffs develop interns professionally by assigning those duties commensurate with an action officer within their assigned directorate. This training prepares officers to serve more effectively in future staff positions within the Joint Staff, the services, or within other defense agencies. The J-1 is the approval authority for all officer assignments on the Joint Staff. Deputy under Secretary of Defense for Military Personnel Policy (DUSD MPP) is the approval authority for officers' assignments to OSD. Key billets on the Joint Staff and OSD require interviews. Phase III – Army Staff Internship: interns spend the third and final year of the program working within the Army Staff. Assignments to Army Staff positions are based upon unique skills acquired during Phases I and II of the program. Like the Joint Staff and OSD Staff, the Army Staff slates interns into demanding roles as lead action officers, calling upon their knowledge base to represent the Army within the Pentagon and throughout Department of Defense (DoD). The Office of the Chief of Staff of the Army is the approval authority for all officer assignments on the Army Staff or otherwise, and reserves the right to alter or change the third and final year of the JCS/OSD/ARSTAF Intern Program. This program is open to officers in Operations, Operations Support, and Force Sustainment Career Fields. L. Olmsted Scholar Program.

1. Program Description: The United States of America is a key leader in the global community. As a result, American military officers must be able to operate effectively with leaders and citizens of many countries. Success in U.S. foreign and security policy requires senior military officers who possess an appreciation for the political, economic, military and other factors that impact relations between countries. In addition, addressing the challenges of international relations requires a knowledge and depth of understanding of the particular countries involved. The Olmsted Scholar Program provides Army officers an unsurpassed opportunity to achieve fluency in a foreign language, pursue graduate study at an overseas university, and acquire an in-depth understanding of foreign cultures, thereby further equipping them to serve in positions of great responsibility as Army senior leaders. This program seeks officers with demonstrated leadership and scholastic ability who also exhibit strong potential to serve as senior leaders. Prior familiarity with foreign languages or cultures is not required to study in any given country. Commanders are encouraged to consider their very best junior officers for this unique and prestigious opportunity. It is the senior rater’s responsibility to mentor potential applicants on the unique aspects of this program and seek out those who would likely succeed in it. The Olmsted Scholar Program is named in honor of its founder, MG George H. Olmsted, and his wife, Carol. O. Secretary of Defense Strategic Thinkers Program (STP).

1. Program Description: The STP is a partnership between the Department of Defense and a contracted civilian university offering a unique, highly selective, in-depth graduate level education, designed for intellectually talented military officers who wish to develop advanced strategic thinking abilities. Participating officers will come from all Services and will proceed through the curriculum as a cohort. The curriculum consists of DoD-approved coursework, developed jointly through the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Force Education and Training (DASD (FE&T)) offices and the contracted civilian university. The curriculum conforms to the academic requirements of the civilian university and its accrediting agency and is designed to be completed in the equivalent of 1 academic year. Students will explore the relationship between politics and a range of historical and contemporary military operations, from the use of hybrid warfare by small, non-state groups to the threatened use of nuclear weapons. Studying under world-class scholars and practitioners at the contracted university, students customize a portion of their course of study from hundreds of functional, regional and economic courses to advance their expertise and position themselves for continued professional success. Prominent military leaders throughout DoD will be invited to address the military cohort, providing their expertise and perspective on themes of political objective, unity of force, inter-Service and inter-allied cooperation and leadership. High-profile theorists and internationally recognized practitioners will be employed as guest lecturers, exposing students to cutting edge theories and insights that are relevant to the way they understand their Military Service. The guest lecturers will provide students with an unparalleled platform for international engagement with traditional and emerging security partners enrolled in similar graduate level coursework.

The Classroom-based portion will combine military historical case studies with economics knowledge, analytics, regional expertise, diplomatic skills and the capacity to apply theory to real-world problems. The curriculum is designed to prepare students with the competencies required to anticipate and adapt to current and future strategic challenges, in order to better inform and assist military and civilian decision-making at all levels. The classroom-based portion will consist of four academic courses in customizable co-curriculum format (university student mix) and four academic courses in a military cohort only format. The experiential war-gaming portion will have students examine historical and contemporary decision-making to gain a better understanding of how strategy and operations have evolved over time and how levels of warfare link together. Students will be required to conduct a strategic assessment, develop a theory of victory, and execute a war plan. Staff rides will focus on important issues of leadership and decision-making that have applications well beyond the field of strategic studies. Students, faculty and guest lecturers will travel to specific locations to examine historical battles, campaigns, and occasionally entire wars in order to actively engage in a dialogue with history.

The work placement may also require travel on behalf of the agency. The education program augments and enhances the work experience. Over the course of the year, fellows are expected to fully participate in the education program, which may include weekly speaker seminars, domestic policy trips, an international policy trip, and day trips to study various policy issues, which may vary year to year. Each class meets with dozens of individuals including supreme court justices, cabinet secretaries, senior white house officials, members of congress, military leaders, journalists, historians, business executives, leaders from non-government organizations, and foreign heads of state. These sessions generally take place during the week, and are off-the-record, lively and frank. If travel is possible, another component of the education program involves the study of U.S. policy in action across the country and abroad, during several policy study trips throughout the year. Fellows also have several opportunities to engage with the U.S. military to broaden their understanding of military service.
