The Task Spectrum of the German Army

From Refugee Support Operations to Stability and Peace Support Operations to Combined Arms Maneuver

Multinationality as the Bedrock

The Army is taking responsibility. As the central element of Germany's military landpower, we are a reliable partner.

The new Task Spektrum of the Army

After more than a decade focusing of peace enforcement and peace support operations, primarily in AFG, the German Army now has to be able to operate across the full range of military operations against threats ranging from terrorist organizations to near peer and hybrid formations.

The Combat Brigade as a System

The Combined Arms Brigade is the cornerstone of the German Army. It is capable of applying scaled combatpower across the full range of military operations and is therefore equipped with the most advanced material currently available.
