Just a note to be aware about cyber concerns from: Fort Benning: CID Warns of Email Scam, Criminals Posing as Police.

QUANTICO, Virginia, Mar. 5, 2013 – The U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command, commonly referred to as CID, is warning both the Army community and the public about a new internet phishing scam where criminals are attempting to pose as Army CID officials.

Cyber-criminals are attempting to impersonate members of the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Command via email, stating that they are from the "Office of the Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI)," when no such organization exists within Army CID.

In the email, the perpetrators state that they have discovered fraudulent activities with a company that the targeted victim had contact with. The cyber-criminals then ask the potential victim to acknowledge the email and provide financial and personal information.

However, if you receive an email claiming to be from "Office of the Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI)", to take the following steps:

DO NOT RESPOND TO THE EMAIL

—STOP all contact if you have responded to the email and report it to CID.

—REPORT having received the email to Army CID's "Report a Crime" email at usarmy.belvoir.usacidc.mail.crime-tips@mail.mil.
